Foreword

ISO (the International Organization for Standardization) is a worldwide federation of national standards bodies (ISO member bodies). The work of preparing International Standards is normally carried out through ISO technical committees. Each member body interested in a subject for which a technical committee has been established has the right to be represented on that committee. International organizations, governmental and non-governmental, in liaison with ISO, also take part in the work. ISO collaborates closely with the International Electrotechnical Commission (IEC) on all matters of electrotechnical standardization.

The procedures used to develop this document and those intended for its further maintenance are described in the ISO/IEC Directives, Part 1. In particular the different approval criteria needed for the different types of ISO documents should be noted. This document was drafted in accordance with the editorial rules of the ISO/IEC Directives, Part 2 (see www.iso.org/directives).

Attention is drawn to the possibility that some of the elements of this document may be the subject of patent rights. ISO shall not be held responsible for identifying any or all such patent rights. Details of any patent rights identified during the development of the document will be in the Introduction and/or on the ISO list of patent declarations received (see www.iso.org/patents).

Any trade name used in this document is information given for the convenience of users and does not constitute an endorsement.

For an explanation on the meaning of ISO specific terms and expressions related to conformity assessment, as well as information about ISO's adherence to the World Trade Organization (WTO) principles in the Technical Barriers to Trade (TBT) see the following URL: www.iso.org/iso/foreword.html.

The committee responsible for this document is ISO/TC 83, Sports and other recreational facilities and equipment, Subcommittee SC 5, Ice hockey equipment and facilities.

This first edition of ISO 10256-4, together with ISO 10256-1, ISO 10256-2, ISO 10256-3, ISO 10526-5, and ISO 10256-6, cancels and replaces ISO 10256:2003, which has been technically revised.

ISO 10256 consists of the following parts, under the general title Protective equipment for use in ice hockey:

- Part 1: General requirements
- Part 2: Head protection for skaters
- Part 3: Face protectors for skaters
- Part 4: Head and face protection for goalkeepers
- Part 5: Neck laceration protectors for ice hockey players

The following parts are under preparation:

Introduction

Ice hockey is a contact sport with intrinsic hazards. The use of protective equipment will not eliminate all injuries but is intended to substantially reduce the severity and frequency of many injuries. Participation in the sport of ice hockey by a player implies acceptance of some risk of injury. The goal is to reduce the risk.

Performance requirements were determined after consideration of the state of the art of head and face protective design and manufacture. This specification was developed to address the unique demands and hazards associated with the position of ice hockey goalkeeper.

Three types of protectors are designated. All types are subject to impact resistance and shock attenuation requirements. Types D1 and D2 protectors are subject to hockey stick blade penetration resistance requirements over their entire area of coverage. Type D3 protectors are subject to hockey puck penetration resistance requirements within the protected area of the face and hockey stick blade penetration resistance requirements over the protected area of the head. It is recommended that Type D3 protectors be used only by players 18 years of age and older.

Protective equipment for use in ice hockey —

Part 4: Head and face protection for goalkeepers

1 Scope

This part of ISO 10256 covers performance requirements for head and face protectors to be used by ice hockey goalkeepers. It is intended to be read in conjunction with ISO 10256-1, ISO 10256-2 and ISO 10256-3.

Performance requirements are established, where appropriate for the following:

- a) materials, assembly, and design;
- b) protected areas (coverage) and penetration resistance;
- c) shock absorption;
- d) puck impact resistance;
- e) retention;
- f) optical quality.

NOTE 1 — The requirements of a clause take precedent over a figure.

NOTE 2 — The intent of this part of ISO 10256 is to reduce the risk of injury to the head and face of ice hockey goalkeepers without compromising the form and appeal of the game.
